All Saints Church exists to help people live the best life possible through our commitment to serving God, the community and one another.

All Saints Shooters Hill 50

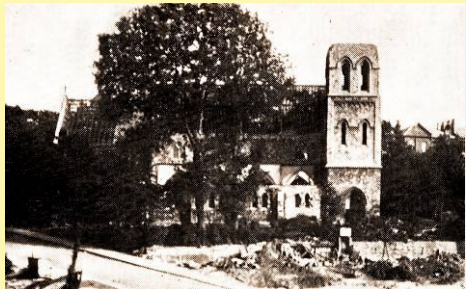

A brief history of All Saints

In 1867 Rev William McGuinness erected a tent where the old fire station now stands and started preaching and holding services. In 1868 he built a tin church on the corner of Cantwell Road and Eglinton Hill.

In 1872 a church school was opened on the current church site.

By writing ten thousand letters each year for several years Rev McGuinness managed to raise the £9000 needed to build a church on the corner of Cantwell Road and Ripon Road which was completed in 1881.

The church was made a parish soon after and continued in use until, in 1944, it was destroyed by bombing.

For a while the congregation worshipped in an iron building in Cantwell Road and then in the church hall which was opposite the Post Office in Herbert Road.

Finally the congregation collected enough money to build a new church which was built on the site of the old school. It was opened on 6 July 1957.

50th Anniversary Celebrations

Our 50th celebrations started with a service on 19 Feb 2006 to commemorate the anniversary of the laying of the foundation stone. It was conducted by the Bishop of Woolwich, Christopher Chessun.

The Bishop of Southwark, Tom Butler, is helping us start six months of special events leading up to the 50th anniversary of All Saints' consecration. These will include a concert by the Greenwich Concert Band and International and Quiz nights.

On 8 July our celebrations will end with a service at 10.30 at which Rev Dr Jules Gomes will preach.

All members, former members and members of the local community are invited to join with us in as many of the events as they can.
